

Java Script

Java Script

- Anders Jenbo, WebDeveloper for Føniks Computers in Fredriksberg

Java Script

- First introduced by Netscape in version 2.0 circa 1995

Java Script

- First introduced by Netscape in version 2.0 circa 1995
- Implemented by Microsoft in Internet Explorer version 3.0 circa 1996

Java Script

- First introduced by Netscape in version 2.0 circa 1995
- Implemented by Microsoft in Internet Explorer version 3.0 circa 1996
- Standardized by ECMA in 1997

How is Java Script used?

- Browser Side – to submit information to a server, load a new page, animate elements on a page, validate whatever is input and to track user statistics.

How is Java Script used?

- Browser Side – to submit information to a server, load a new page, animate elements on a page, validate whatever is input and to track user statistics.
- Server Side – for network based applications which can be scaled, with file IO and multiple users.

How is Java Script used?

- Browser Side – to submit information to a server, load a new page, animate elements on a page, validate whatever is input and to track user statistics.
- Server Side – for network based applications which can be scaled, with file IO and multiple users.
- Other – for scripting, games and widgets, PDFs and other applications.

Hello World

```
<!DOCTYPE html PUBLIC "-//W3C//DTD HTML 4.01
Transitional//EN" "http://www.w3.org/TR/html4/loose.dtd">
<html>
<head>
<meta http-equiv="Content-Type" content="text/html;
charset=ISO-8859-1">
<title>Hello World!</title>
</head>
<body>
<script>

    alert('Hello, World!')

</script>

</body>
</html>
```